

AWFUL STORY FROM KANSAS

Victims Who Are in the Trees, Are Seen by the Aid of Telescope, Dropping Off.

LARGE DEAD LIST

One Hundred and Fifty-Five Is the Estimate Now Made—It May Be Larger.

(Special By Scripps-McLain.) Topeka, June 1.—With the first peak of dawn this morning the rescuers again set to work to try and bring the hundreds of persons to safety, that could be seen perched in the tops of trees, by aid of glasses. A few had fastened themselves to the boughs by ropes and pieces of clothing, but many seen last night are now missing, having doubtless been drowned during the night.

Great Loss of Life The loss of life cannot be estimated and the chief of police places the figures at one hundred and fifty-five although many more may have died whose bodies will never be found. Some estimate that the loss will be three times that number.

Food Supply The one serious feature is the food supply and there is a great lack of this and much suffering follows as a consequence. None of the packing houses here or in Kansas City are open and the stock of groceries is very small at present.

Ask Aid Appeals have been sent to Wichita for foodstuffs and other towns will be asked for aid. Fabulous sums have been offered for persons to aid persons in the dangerous districts, but few of these offers have been accepted.

NEGRO CRAP SHOOTERS FIGHT BALL PLAYERS

Two Blacks and a White Boy Are Killed and a Colored Man's Back Is Broken.

Pittsburg, Pa., June 1.—Negro "crap shooters" and white baseball players fought at West Liberty, three persons being killed and the back of another broken with a baseball bat. The white boys and men attempted to lynch one negro. They had a rope about his neck and were dragging him to a tree when the police were seen to be approaching on a double-quick. Instantly the whites began to beat their captives on the head and back with ball clubs. They fled before the police arrived, leaving the negro suffering from a broken back and other injuries that will prove fatal.

Two of those killed outright in the fray were negroes and the third was a white boy. At least 100 shots were fired during the battle.

A crowd of white boys were playing baseball and near by several negroes were gambling with dice. The negroes, claiming the white boys had tried to break up the gambling game, attacked the ball players. A crowd watching the ball game interfered in behalf of the white boys. The negroes received reinforcements and a half hour fight in which clubs and revolvers were used followed, the fatalities being the result. The two negroes who were killed were shot by members of the white crowd.

MARK TWAIN IN A HAZE.

His Manager Tells of Effects of a London Fog.

Mark Twain's former lecture manager tells this story of an entertainment given by the humorist in London during a heavy fog: "One night the Queen's concert rooms were like a smokehouse, and I saw from my chair in the royal box a shadowy dress-coat, supported by a pair of shadowy trousers, girdled by the faint halo of the ineffectual footlights. A voice was in the air, but it was difficult to locate it with any degree of certainty. The apparently headless trunk of the lecturer told what he knew of our fellow-savages, the Sandwich Islanders; and at intervals out of the depths ascended the muffled murmur of an audience invisible to the naked eye. Mark began his lecture on this occasion with a delicate allusion to the weather, and said: 'Perhaps you can't see me, but I am here!'"

KANSAS CITY'S BAD CONDITION

Business at a Standstill and Hundreds Are Now Suffering From Exposure.

RIVER IS RISING

Thousands of Dollars' Loss Is Sustained in All Parts of the City.

Kansas City, Mo., June 1.—The Missouri river stood this morning at thirty-five feet, having risen four feet and five inches in the night. Rain fell during the night and a cold drizzle continues. The known dead are seven while twenty others are missing. The Hannibal and Milwaukee bridge are the last two structures standing that keep communication open with the outside world at present.

No Fires No fires broke out tonight in the up-town section despite the fact that thousands of fires were started by persons who were trying to keep warm. All fires in the flooded section are now out and people are suffering with the extreme cold.

Business Paralyzed Business is paralyzed. Merchants can neither receive nor ship goods. The stockyards are barely visible and cannot be reached except by water. The packing plants are all out of business and under water; in many cases some feet.

Patrol Streets Meat and foodstuffs are scarce and state troops are patrolling the streets. All is orderly. The saloons are all closed. Forty thousand persons along the river are homeless. Seventeen bridges are down, a million dollars meat loss and twenty locomotives in the river are known losses.

JILTED MAN STABS FORMER SWEETHEART

Youth Mad With Jealousy Believes the Girl Is About to Meet His Victorious Rival.

Marion, Ind., June 1.—Almost insane with jealousy, Charles Moore, aged 20, stabbed his sweetheart, Mamie Williams, and left her lying in the street, apparently dead. The girl is said to have broken her marriage engagement with Moore. She boarded an electric car to go to the home of a girl friend. Moore saw her and thinking she was to meet his rival at the home of her friend boarded the same car.

When Miss Williams stepped from the car at Meridian street Moore leaped from the platform and before the girl or the passengers realized his intention he stabbed her several times. Her throat was cut from the right car across the jugular vein. She fell to the street with blood streaming from her throat and other wounds.

Thinking he had killed her, Moore started to run. He was pursued through the city for an hour and was finally captured at the Keystone club rooms. He was so badly frightened that he could not walk or talk, but when placed in jail recovered. When told that his victim was still living he expressed disappointment. Miss Williams was quickly placed on a street car and taken to a hospital, where her wounds were dressed. She is in a critical condition on account of the great loss of blood and may not recover.

Why the Thuringia Authorities Expelled Two American Citizens.

Berlin, June 1.—The two Americans William Stevens of New York, and John Myers of Chicago, expelled from Meinhelshausen, Thuringia, are Mormons. The same night the home of Thomas Johnson was burned and two weeks later the body of Johnson was found in the Ohio river with such marks as to show he had been murdered.

MAKE INTERESTING TRIP IN THE CUT-OVER AND TIMBER LANDS

SEVENTEEN LOCAL MEN IN PARTY OF 300.

GUESTS OF A LAND COMPANY

Royally Entertained by James L. Gates, the Man Who Did Much To Open Country Country.

After two memorable days spent in the cut-over and timber lands of central northern Wisconsin as the guests of James L. Gates Land company of Milwaukee, seventeen Janesville men this morning arrived at their homes in time for breakfast. Three nights, as well as the two days, had been passed on the road in a special train of eight cars—six Pullman sleepers, a day coach, and a baggage car—carrying 300 people. Save for the hours devoted to sleep every minute of the trip was given to sightseeing or listening to a recital of the glories of the miles of land which lay along the track traversed by the party.

Starting on the North-Western road Friday evening the train was made up at Madison and before returning to the same point today had been whisked over portions of the Omaha, Soo and Wisconsin Central roads. One stretch of about eighteen miles was covered in carriages and in nearly every city carriages or trolley cars were pressed into service. If the population had reached the point where such luxuries existed, it was a slow town that at least did not send a brass band to the depot to escort the three hundred hungry travellers to a convenient eating house. So much of the time was given up to satisfying the inner man that Joe Chapple of Boston promptly dubbed the members of the excursion the "National Eating Association."

A Great Journey. It was an epoch-making trip, if the words of many speakers may be accepted. Each city visited in the newer and least developed country regarded the excursion as the greatest event since the place came into existence. Longest of all stops was that at Ladysmith, where an entire night was spent, and the people flocked out en masse to mark the date as the most memorable during the two years of the city's life.

That the land visited has a brilliant future was taken as an established fact from the outset. In the eight counties travelled through—Eau Claire, Chippewa, Gates, Price, Taylor, Marathon, Wood, and Clark—was shown every kind of desirable land from the uncut stretches of magnificent standing forests and tangled underbrush in Gates and Price counties to the heavily bearing farms of Clark county, on which the massive trees have been felled and crops of valuable grain planted or over which herds of cattle and flocks of sheep are grazing.

Credit to Gates. "Jim" Gates was given all honor for the promise which is exhibited by these lands. His energy and foresight in securing control of mile after mile of country in the days before there was a farm house or a clearing upon them was lauded to the skies. In a less than half-jesting vein ex-Gov. Peck asserted that after "Jim's" name had been attached to the county of Gates he next expected to see a state of "Jim Gates."

Friday evening parties from four central points, Milwaukee, Chicago, Rockford, and Janesville concentrated at Madison, where the train was made up. Two hundred and seventy-three composed the list of guests of Mr. Gates, through whose generosity the entire trip was to be made, at the expense of the guests, at the time when the train pulled out of the Capital City at about midnight. This number fluctuated somewhat as persons joined and left the train from place to place, but the average number was not far from three hundred.

Big Men Were There. Among the guests were a number of the most prominent railroad men, politicians, and capitalists of the northwest. Ex-Gov. Peck was always near the forefront whenever there was occasion for speechifying, and his humor caused many a laugh. Joe Chapple of Boston, a northern Wisconsin young man who is now editor of the National magazine, was on hand with inspiring tongue to voice the sentiment of the occasion. Judge Halsey of Milwaukee; Attorney General Sturdevant of Neillville; C. A. Cairnes of Chicago, general passenger agent of the North-Western road; E. A. Wadhams, president of the Merchants' association of Milwaukee—these were among the men who were most often and most attentively listened to.

Of the Janesville party were A. W. Baumann, R. E. Horne, A. W. Bailey, C. H. Spencer, S. B. Smith, William Bladen, C. I. Sloan, Dan Sheridan, G. M. McKee, M. O. Mount, C. S. Cleland, Wilson Lane, W. W. Crawford, Will Granger, and Dr. F. B. Farnsworth.

In Chippewa County. When the passengers began to arise Saturday morning the train was near Eau Claire, but no stop was made until Chippewa Falls was reached. Here trolley cars were in waiting on the Chippewa Falls and Eau Claire line, the cars being very similar to those in use on the R. B. & J. road, and the guests were taken to the Stanley house where breakfast was served. Mandolin music enlivened the morning, which was somewhat cloudy although not at all disagreeable. Nothing better could have been asked than the weather throughout the trip.

"When the weather man said we were going to have rain," said Mr. Gates, "I telegraphed down to Chicago and told him he was wrong. I knew the weather would be right." And it was.

Trip to Long Lake. After breakfast a trolley ride about the city ended at the depot where the party was taken on the Omaha road, in the same train which was chartered from beginning to end of the trip, to Cartwright.

Here Mr. Gates showed the scene on which he was conducting the excursion. Cartwright has about two stores, four saloons, and a feed mill—not much more, and its lively facilities are limited. Mr. Gates had had enough teams brought overland from Eau Claire and other cities to transport the entire number to Long Lake, nine miles distant.

Although the roads were not of the best and inclined to be dusty the trip was made in comfort. On this trip was given the first view of the lands which Mr. Gates owns or has owned, and to many of the party it came as a revelation. Much of it was almost wilderness, although far from barren, but the cleared and cultivated stretches indicated what the future might do. Log and rough frame houses of unplanned boards were the general rule, the settlers wisely investing in land and stock rather than pretentious dwelling places. Near the lakes the region was beautiful. Forest molds of centuries had enriched the land until it had brought forth a luxuriant tangle of small bushes and undergrowth. The soil is a rich deep clayey loam with clay sub-soil of good depth.

Baked Beans in Woods. In the woods at the far end of Long Lake, also known as Chippewa lake, the party came to a halt and partook of red hot baked beans and biscuit, cooked in kettles and pans in the woods. Wash boilers of fragrant coffee and sundry other liquid refreshments were pressed upon the guests.

Returning to the train by teams the party departed for Cameron Junction on the Omaha road; thence to Ladysmith over the Soo road. The banquet at Ladysmith in the evening was the crowning event of the trip. Every article of food served was raised in the county from actual cream and rich pike and muskrat—long to the corn meal mush. Presumably the "Gates County Cigars" were of home-grown cabbage as no tobacco leaf is grown in the state. After the banquet speeches followed until nearly midnight. A large audience stood on the outskirts to hear the toasts and see these men who were so interested in the new north. "Gid" Newman well known to every Rock county man was the chairman of the committee on arrangements at Ladysmith, and he made the speech of welcome. In turning over the city to the visitors he presented a huge "key" that made Milwaukee famous, as he expressed it. It was a monstrous corkscrew with a handle a foot long and screw correspondingly lengthy. Neat photographic souvenirs showing the leading buildings of the city and the young lady after whom the city was named were presented to the guests.

Thence to Nellville. After breakfast in Ladysmith the Wisconsin Central and Soo roads bore the train to Marshfield for dinner and a drive about the city. Nellville was the next stop where teams were pressed into service to carry the visitors out into the nearby farm lands where it was shown what wonders had been accomplished on land very similar to that of Gates county. The statement was made that Mr. Gates had sold nine-tenths of the land in Clark county when it was no more developed than that in Gates.

Janesville Man Spoke. Five hours were spent in Nellville, during which time a dainty lunch was served in the Armory and speakers heaped encomiums upon the people, cities, and especially farm lands of Clark county. Stanley B. Smith of this city was one of the speakers, and he referred in the highest terms to the wife of Mr. Gates as a factor in the success which had been attained. His two sons, Robert and the ubiquitous Harry, a twelve-year-old lad, had both been praised by former speakers, as had Mr. Gates' mother who had been seated at the table. Mr. Gates was originally a Nellville boy.

At ten o'clock Sunday evening the party returned to the train which landed in Madison at five-thirty this morning, having come by way of Merrill Junction. The Janesville party reached home soon after seven o'clock.

SCOTCH PLAYER TALKS OF GOLF. Is Much Disturbed by the Many Pronunciations of the Old Name.

A Scotch golfer who played golf in 1838, before the railway era and long before the English took up the game, writes the Times that the English are mispronouncing the name of the national game in a way that distresses him. He proceeds to say that among gentlemen who had been in England or India, and were free from the pronounced "goff," by caddies and those speaking a broad Scotch it was "goff." The phrase, "folk play goff," was pronounced by gentlemen "foke play goff," "goff" rhyming with "loaf." By caddies it was pronounced "fovk play goff." There was a third pronunciation, but was an affection, "goff." Those who so pronounced it here were supposed to speak high English, avoiding the broad pronunciation of the letter "a," a prevalent Scotch substitute for "e."

"E" used short is "i," thus, "heffest" signified, for "half past seven." This peculiar dialect is greatly admired by my fellow countrymen," he says, "and was known to them as Edinburgh English, but even in the unsounded "i" in golf could they have foreseen what the actual future mispronunciation of the English on taking up the game would have been with what joy would they have called it "gawlf." It would have seemed to them "so English."

TOBACCO TALK IS INTERESTING

PRESENT OUTLOOK IS VERY GOOD FOR CROPS

THE SALES ARE NOW SLOW

Cleaning Up the Old Stock Continues To Progress Very Quietly

To all appearances, the leaf markets of Wisconsin have entered upon the summer vacation period, says the Edgerton Tobacco Reporter. A little warehouse handling is yet being done at a few points, but no trading worthy of mention has developed. W. T. Pomeroy, of Edgerton reports the sale of a couple of car loads lots of 1901 leaf, breaking money in a dull week.

The heavy rains of the week have doubtless flooded some plants beds, on low grounds, but otherwise the young plants are making satisfactory growth and in some instances will be ready for the fields the coming week. Everywhere throughout the growing sections plants will be in time for early transplanting. The present indications are that growers will be behind with their field work owing to the delays of the rainy weather.

The situation near Lancaster, Pa., from the tobacco planters standpoint looks decidedly blue. Here it is within a few days of June and very little tobacco set out so far, and of that little or none by hand. The last rain of any account was on April 16. Thunderstorms have been playing all over the country, but in nearly every place where there was rain, the downfall was very slight, just enough to settle the dust, while a very limited area of territory got enough to do any good. All this has made the farmers feel very blue, as they believe in the doctrine of getting out their tobacco plants as early in the spring as possible.

Meanwhile the tobacco plants in their beds are having troubles of their own. In many localities the farmers say that snails (slugs) have made their appearance among the plants and are eating them up and otherwise causing damage. An early application of paris green would have remedied this evil, but the remedy was delayed until it was too late. Many plant beds have been resown. It is just possible that unless an improvement in the situation comes along speedily, the acreage of the crop will be materially interfered with.

Extreme Rain Early. Information received at the Department of agriculture in regard to the coming tobacco crop of Virginia, is of a discouraging character. According to reports from Danville, Richmond and other points, the excessive rains early in April retarded the growth of the plants in the beds and the unusually dry weather for the past two weeks has prevented their being set out. The indication seems to be that not as much as Virginia tobacco will be produced this year as last, which has tended to raise the prices for tobacco already in hand.

Setting, or the work of transplanting the plants, is in progress, in Connecticut. Where glass is used, the plants are very forward. The soil is very dry, as but little rain has fallen for the past two weeks. It will be hard work to make them all grow. It is hoped that the sales now being made will induce many of the growers to make it their winter business to assort, pack and sweat their crops. There are many who advocate the idea of having the plants quite large before setting, as they are said to live better. There is some substance in this, although some of the leaves may die off. The dry weather would make it difficult for small plants to grow.

Cigar Trade Brisk. The retail cigar business in New York has acquired a more healthy tone. The improved trade condition have induced the retailers with more hope so that the reports that six or more stores are to be opened by the so-called trust does not disturb them. They are fully prepared, as they have anticipated such a move for some time, and it is questioned if these stores will make such rapid progress as have characterized them in New York. Cigar manufacturers are fairly busy and make no complaint except in regard to collections, which they claim are very slow. This is always the case at this time owing to the liquor license that falls due on May 1st. The saloon trade for the cigar manufacturer is now a thing of the past and the manufacturers who at one time had a large trade in that line, are now paying strict attention to the retail cigar dealers.

A bill was introduced into the Wisconsin legislature making it unlawful to give away with cigars, cigarettes or tobacco any tickets, coupons, vouchers, certificates or other memoranda to be redeemed with gifts, but was defeated.

MORTGAGE LAW NOT DANGEROUS

But Real Estate Board Considers It Paves Way for an Exemption.

In speaking of the mortgage law recently passed by the legislature the Milwaukee Sentinel says of the direct results that it does not consider it as dangerous as has been claimed. Real estate men of Milwaukee have carefully considered the question and have discovered that it paves the way for an exemption statute. Their decision follows:

The result of the new law, will be that the next legislature will pass a measure formally exempting mortgages from taxation, as the most-gage taxation law just passed has already done in effect.

This was the consensus of the opinion at the meeting of the directors of the Milwaukee real estate board, which was held Thursday afternoon to consider and arrive at some uniform basis of understanding upon the new piece of legislation. The new measure cannot increase the taxes of the property owners, it is said by those who are interested in the matter and have made it a study because both the equity and mortgage cannot be assessed for more than the full value of the property as heretofore assessed.

At the meeting which was presided over by President Rogers, an animated discussion of the new law was had and it was decided that a committee consisting of E. P. Hackett, F. W. Rogers, and Charles B. Well, be appointed to draw up a uniform mortgage form which shall comply with the provisions of the new law and which will be used by every member of the board. This form will be marked, "Adopted by the real estate board," and will insure the uniformity in this direction which the board is anxious to bring about in all real estate transactions in the city.

"This matter has been largely misunderstood, I take it," said E. P. Hackett, after the meeting, "and the people have become alarmed, for fear that their taxes will be increased on account of this measure. It really resolves itself in a few words, into this proposition. The old law made the owner of mortgaged property pay his taxes on the valuation of his holdings, regardless of whether they were mortgaged or not; the mortgages were assessed against the mortgages as personal property, the new law makes them a part of the realty, and the assessment is supposed to be so divided that the owner will only be assessed for the value of his mortgage, the aggregate not to exceed the value of the property. Now, if the whole amount is paid by the mortgagor, he has no more to pay than he did before. There is no occasion for any uneasiness about the matter, and we have assured all our clients that they need not worry about it at all."

In view of the fact that the law permits the assessor to assess the mortgage and equity together, if so requested, a form will be drawn up by the committee which the mortgagor will be requested to sign, asking the assessor to make the assessments, on each piece of mortgaged property, and on the mortgage at the same time.

GOOD SHOW ON SATURDAY NIGHT

Hi Henry's Minstrels Pleased a Large Audience at the Myers Grand.

Hi Henry's Minstrel show at the opera house Saturday night pleased a good sized audience. Every member of the company was an artist and not a moment dragged during the evening. Part one consisted of the old time minstrel show, but the jokes were new and the solos were well rendered. One song in particular, "And the Band Was Playing Dixie" was especially good. The singing of a quintette was also very good. Part two was mostly musical, a brass band with cornet solos that were appreciated by all lovers of good music. Clog dancing and comedy sketches took up another part of the program. Perhaps the most artistic of all was a whistler, whose performance has probably never been surpassed here. A monologue artist was also extremely clever and the audience showed they appreciated the acrobatic acts that closed the performance by remaining seated until the curtain had fallen for the last time.

An Animal Story For Little Folks

The Bear Catches Fish

There was an Eskimo lad who was fond of fishing, as boys generally are. One day he went out with his rod and line and plenty of bait to see if he could not make a good catch of fish. He pitched in his hook and threw himself on the ground and, lazy boy, went fast asleep.

But it was doubtless the best thing for him that he did go to sleep, for in a few minutes along came Mr. White

STROLLED AWAY WITH A BIG FISH.

Bear, who had left home without his breakfast and was just now looking for something to eat.

"Ah," cried Mr. Bear, "here is a boy! 'He eat him!'"

And with that he walked up near to where the boy was asleep. But when he got within a short distance Mr. Bear noticed the fishing pole. Now, as much as the white bear likes nice little boys, he likes nice, fat fish better. So Mr. Bear said to himself: "I'll pull that line in and see if there is anything on the hook."

He did so, and there was a good fat fish there. Mr. Bear was much pleased and sat down and ate the fish. Then he threw the line in again, and, lo and behold, he pulled out another fish. He also ate this fish and a third which he caught by tossing the line in again.

His hunger having been relieved, the bear did not, of course, have any further desire to eat the Eskimo lad, but turned on his heel and strolled away with a big fish.—Chicago Tribune.

IN NORTHERN AFRICA

THE FRENCH HAVE DONE WON-DERS FOR ALGERIA.

Strong Contrast Between That Country and the Barbarism of Morocco—
Climate Very Similar to That of Southern California.

(Special Correspondence.)

The visit of President Loubet to Algeria, where he was welcomed and feted by the Arabs as well as by the French, demonstrates the great changes that have taken place in that country in the last seventy-three years, the length of time that it has been governed by the French. For three hundred years previous it had been in the power of the infidel, who not only ruled with an iron hand throughout the land, but sent his corsairs, manned by Barbary pirates, to prey upon the commerce of the seas. Cruising in the Mediterranean, now such a favorite pastime with the rich of all nationalities, was then filled with danger, for woe befell the helpless travelers who fell into the hands of these barbarians.

In 1816 an English squadron of ships bombarded Algiers and destroyed the entire Algerian naval force. Over one thousand Christian slaves were set at liberty, and a promise was given by the Dey that piracy and Christian slavery should cease forever. The Algerians, however, did not long adhere to the terms of the treaty and soon again set the great powers of Europe at defiance. The end of the government of the Deys came about some fourteen years later. In the spring of 1830 a large French force was sent to Algiers, and after several engagements near the city, a general bombardment was commenced on the morning of the Fourth of July, and before night a treaty was concluded for the entire surrender of Algiers. The Dey was forced to leave the country, and with his private property and a large body of attendants retired to Naples.

The French have by this time pretty thoroughly broken the Algerian to the harness of civilization, though they had to contend with uprisings and revolutions for over forty years before the fiery natives finally submitted to their rule. Now everything possible is done to make them see the advantages and beneficial effect of a strong, well-administered government insuring protection to life and guarantee for property, making the cities safe, and each year decreasing their death rate by improving the sanitary conditions. Hundreds of miles of railroads have been constructed, and by the building of fine smooth roads throughout the land, the most remote country districts have been brought into safe and easy communication with the coast towns. By the sinking of artesian wells in the desert, many oases have been created on which the date palms are now yielding their fruit, thereby increasing the wealth of the inhabitants of that arid region. On the slopes of the mountains, long since denuded of their forests by the wasteful methods of the Arabs, many trees have been set out, which may in time tend to increase the rainfall on the plains below, where now but a scanty crop of grain will grow. Thus does France strive to better the condition of the Algerian and give him more to live for.

After a trip through the Barbary States, beginning at Tangier and ending in Tunis, which the writer made a few years ago, he could but feel that the benefits exceed the wrongs of the occupation of a semi-barbarous country by a strong civilized power. What a contrast between the French colonies and the country to the westward still in the hands of the Moor! In Morocco there are misery and injustice on every side, nothing is done to help or uplift the native from his stupid, half-barbaric life; in fact, any introduction of the usages of modern civilization is strongly resented. The chief reason of the recent revolt against the young Sultan was that he wished to be a little more progressive. The story goes that, when this young man had an automobile sent to Fez, and with an inexperienced native chauffeur began whizzing around, incidentally bowling over several sedate Moors and causing stampedes among the donkeys and camels, it was more than his subjects could stand, and they expressed their disapproval in no uncertain terms. He has since been led to see the errors of his ways and now promises to become as fanatical and unprogressive as the majority of his people.

Concerning the automobile incident one cannot help having some sympathy for "the man in the street." Throughout Northern Algeria huge French touring cars go thundering along the highways, and undoubtedly they are equally unpopular with the poor Algerian as with the Moor.

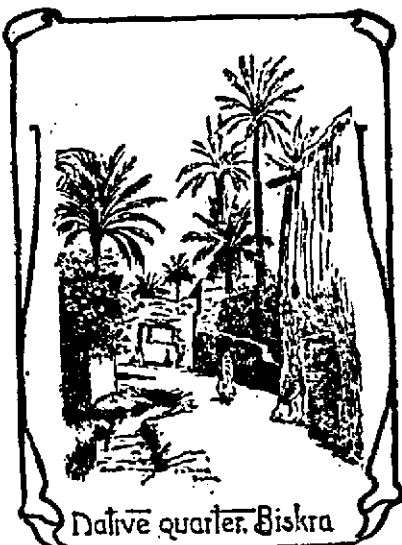

A Tunisian Mosque

though he dare make no protest against these "machines du diable," as I once heard an Arab designate them.

In Algeria one is constantly reminded of Southern California by the similarity of climate, and by the character of the scenery, leaving man out, though the great number of eucalyptus trees planted by the French further increases the resemblance to the Pacific slope. The northern edge of the Sahara suggests the arid lands in California and Arizona that are seen in traveling, but farther south, where the desert becomes nearly flat and small oases of tall date palms are generally to be seen on the distant horizon, all the resemblance to our country ceases. The writer spent three months in the oasis of Biskra, which is called by the Arabs the "Queen of the Desert." A railway was built to this place about a dozen years ago, principally to facilitate the exportation of dates, which formerly were carried in sacks on the backs of camels all the way to the coast, a long journey and very detrimental to the dates, which from the constant shaking they received, due to the peculiar gait of the camel, would be packed into a solid mass. Now they are carefully boxed and are placed on the world's market in beautiful condition.

To live in the Sahara all the year round, as the French officers and soldiers are obliged to do, must be very monotonous. In the summer terrible sand storms prevail and the heat is excessive. In the winter gazelle hunting seems to be the principal diversion, though this elusive game is growing scarcer each year. Formerly there were lions in the mountains to the North, but they have long since become extinct. The only lion that the writer saw in Algeria was a poor emaciated specimen of the king of beasts which an Arab led around by a chain in Biskra. The Arabs have a superstition that to step over a prostrate lion wins them a great favor with Mahomet; for the sum of "deux sous" this man would make the brute lie down and allow one step over him, and there were many Arabs who thus safely and with slight expense gained the good will of the Prophet.

PRINCE POINTS A MORAL.

Royal Visitor Criticizes Methods of United States.

Prince Sapleke, who has been the social lion of Lakewood, is very apt with repartee. In discussing the Imperialistic attitude of the United States, he told the following story:

"The saving of the Philippines from governing themselves and giving them liberty through the use of Maxims reminds me of a missionary in India. It was during the famine season. One of the Government officials called upon him.

"'Brother,' he said, 'I understand your people are not nursing the dying natives as much as they might. Didn't you come here to save souls?'

"'Yes, brother,' was the reply. 'But it isn't much use to begin when they are almost in transit!'"—New York Times.

LAW DECISIONS FOR LAYMEN

Recent Court Rulings That Will Interest the Busy Reader Very Much.

Assault and Battery—Definitions. The Superior court of Delaware, in a recent case, lays down a few propositions on assault and battery, as follows:

Offensive and insulting words can not justify an assault and battery. When one is assaulted, it is the duty to escape the danger, if he can with out risk; but if he cannot, he may use such force as is necessary to repel the attack. The resistance of a person assaulted and unable to escape, must not be excessive or out of proportion to the provocation or danger threatened, and, if it is so, the party is guilty of an unlawful assault. 54 Atlantic Rep. (Del. Judge Spruance) 742.

Street Railways—Injuries to Passengers. A passenger injured by a railroad's negligence is entitled to recover a reasonable compensation for the injuries sustained, including the pain and suffering, impaired capacity to labor since the accident, and his probable loss of time and labor in the future, resulting from the injuries, and, if the injuries are permanent in character, he is also entitled to recover for any impairment of earning capacity in the future. 54 Atlantic Rep. (Delaware, Judge Boyce) 743.

Physicians—Negligence. A passenger injured by a railroad's reasonable care and diligence in the treatment of his patient is liable for malpractice.

The defendant undertook the case of a patient on Sunday. The patient died the following Saturday. The only damages of any amount which the deceased sustained were those resulting from mental and bodily pain. In an action by his administrator, the evidence showed that the physician had failed to discover that the patient had diphtheria. It is held that a verdict of $2,000 is unmistakably too large. 54 Atlantic Rep. (Maine, Judge Savage) 763.

Felons Assault—Criminal Intent. Defendant had made in Omaha, a handsome and highly polished box, with a secret device by means of which inclosed dynamite would be exploded on its being opened. He then went to Des Moines, purchased dynamite to put into the box, took the box to Chicago and expressed it addressed to himself at his wife's home in Waterloo. At the same time, knowing that she was in the habit of opening his letters, he sent a letter, likewise addressed to himself, calculated to excite the belief that the box contained articles that had been presented to him by another woman. Held, to show that his purpose in sending the box was not a lawful one, but that it was for the purpose of committing murder. 94 Northwestern Rep. (Iowa, Judge Bishop) 564.

Injunction—Labor Organization. The New York Supreme Court has decided in a late case of Beattie vs. Callahan, that an injunction would lie against a labor organization and its officers to prevent interference with the plaintiff's business by inducing parties under contract, to break the same through threats of ordering their employees to strike. It appearing that the reasons for the hostile course against the plaintiff were that he refused to recognize the association, and had offered an alleged affront to the walking delegate.

WISCONSIN WEATHER FORECAST

Threatening tonight and Tuesday with rain.

ABUSE OF PUBLIC CHARACTERS

The Gazette is in receipt of a paper bearing the above title, and recently read by the author, Charles H. Williams of Baraboo, before the Fortnightly Literary club of that city. Mr. Williams' attention was called to a paragraph on La Folletteism, which appeared not very long ago in the Gazette, and he evidently thought that the paper needed a little advice in dealing with the records of public men.

The paper is quite exhaustive, containing some 8000 words, and occupying half a dozen columns of newspaper type. It does not contain very much in the way of argument, because the author fails to distinguish between personal character and public responsibility.

A man's private life belongs to himself, and so long as he observes the law, the press respects his rights but his public career belongs to the people. He may be honest in his convictions and conscientious in motive, but extremely dangerous.

This fact is fully recognized by the press, which esteems it not only a privilege, but a duty to commend or condemn, as occasion may warrant. The general public rely upon the press, as they have a right to, for information and knowledge concerning the acts of public servants. Every paper of any prominence, has men connected with the staff, whose business it is to furnish this kind of information.

Mr. Bryan enjoys the reputation of a whole souled, large hearted, Christian gentleman. His private life is above reproach, and his honesty has never been questioned. But Mr. Bryan is a theorist, and his ideas are so impractical, that if adopted, the nation would be financially ruined in consequence.

He is popular as a leader, because his revolutionary scheme promised something for nothing, and the world is full of people who are looking for this class of ventures. Free silver, as expounded by Mr. Bryan meant an abundance of money for everybody, and 6,000,000 voters endorsed the new faith, and championed the cause of Bryanism.

The democratic party was lost in the transformation, and the universities and colleges of the land were poisoned and contaminated by the pernicious doctrine.

The press of the country, without regard to party affiliations appreciated the situation and came to the rescue. Mr. Bryan was characterized, and his creed held up to ridicule. He was denounced from one end of the land to the other, as the most dangerous leader that had ever gained a foothold on American soil. Republicans and democrats joined hands to defeat him, and when the work was accomplished the press was commended for abusing that sort of a public character.

Mr. Bryan is a populist, and populism is the initial step towards socialism. He located in a populist state and is now engaged in conducting a paper devoted to his peculiar ideas.

The Commoner is Mr. Bryan's mouthpiece, and a casual reading will convince any unprejudiced mind that the doctrines advanced are destructive to the welfare of the nation, yet Wisconsin has the misfortune to have a governor who finds in Mr. Bryan much to commend.

There is an old saying, as true as it is ancient, that "birds of a feather flock together." When the press of the state attacked the public life of Governor La Follette and claim that he is a dangerous leader on account of his socialistic tendencies, the attack is warranted.

In this age of unrest, when capital and labor are so much at variance, the welfare of the nation demands conservative leaders. The man who encourages class hatred, and class distinction however honest may be his motive, deserves the most scathing denunciation.

The man in public life, however exalted may be his position, is a public servant. He is accountable to the public and his accountability should be thoroughly recognized. He may gain popularity by appealing to popular prejudice. Debbs succeeded in doing that ten years ago, and landed behind the bars.

Public character is not abused by the press outside of a few yellow journals, who cater to the demands of a yellow constituency. The state as well as the nation, is entitled to intelligent, conservative service by men in official life. This fact is fully recognized by the press of the land, and outside of Pennsylvania, there is no disposition to muzzle public utterance.

THE POPULIST AND ROOSEVELT

The assertion of a prominent Kansas Populist that he and the greater portion of his element in his state will support Roosevelt in 1904 is bothering some of the democratic papers. What do these papers think the Populists ought to do? Most of them in Kansas and the other republican states of the west were drawn from the republican party. Now that their party and the issues which produced it are dead, it is natural that they should return to the original affiliation.

Moreover, the Populists of Kansas and other states of the west have another reason for rejoicing the republican party. They see that the republicans in the past year have done more against the trusts than the democrats could do in a decade. If they had the whole of the machinery of the government under their control, the democrats talk against the trusts, but they did not attempt to do anything against them when they had supreme control of the government in the early part of Cleveland's second term. They would have done nothing against the trusts if they have been in power uninterruptedly until today. The leaders of the democracy know this. So do the trusts.

Of course, the Populists of Kansas and all the rest of the states of the west will shout for Roosevelt in 1904. On the great issues of the day, the tariff, the trusts and the national expansion, the western Populists are on the side of the republican party and always were. Free silver is as dead as slavery. The issue of greenbackism and of federal loans on deposits of farm stock is ancient history. There is no place for the populists of the prairie states to go now except into the republican party. Colorado, Montana, Nebraska, and all the rest of the states of the mountain and prairie region which recently shouted for Bryan are stalwart republican commonwealths again and will remain so. Kansas gave 80,000 plurality to Harrison in 1888. Her margin for Roosevelt in 1904 will be very little, if at all below that mark.—St. Louis Globe Democrat.

The city can hardly afford to insist on having a sidewalk built by citizens, while the walk in front of the new library building is neglected. The library board have all arrangements made to sod the grounds around the building, and are waiting for the walk. The public is entitled to the use of the library, and the opening is being deferred until the walk is put in. The excuse that funds are exhausted is not sufficient as the work can be paid for later. If the council object to borrowing money. The walk should be put in without further delay.

The tax payers of the city can make no better investment of time than to spend an hour at the stone crusher plant. The city has $10,000 invested in as complete a plant as can be found anywhere. It is located in one of the best quarries of the state, with good stone enough in sight to last for 50 years. The plant can be operated at a moderate expense and after the city gets its second wind, the product will be in demand for years to come. Go out and see the investment and size up the prospects.

The people are not all on a strike. If appearances do point that way. Strikes, like crime, command attention, while but little is said about law abiding citizens, or people who are too busy to strike. A very large majority of the people are contented and happy and most of the industries throughout the country are in a prosperous condition.

A crazy negro at Pine Pluff, Arkansas, predicted that the city would be destroyed by a tornado next Friday. As a result the negroes became panic stricken, and 6,000 of them have already left the city. The railroads have been unable to handle the crowds and all kinds of business is paralyzed.

PRESS COMMENT

Toledo Blade: A Raleigh (N. C.) chemist has discovered that beer sold in that town contains salicylic acid, formalin, Paris green, prussic acid, and various other ingredients calculated to make a man forget the world. Now the temperance workers contemplate withdrawing, to let nature take its course.

Pittsburg Gazette: Gen. Greene has decided there shall be a change of sandwiches in the Sunday drinking resorts in New York. Gen. Greene is right. Two years is crowding the age limit on any sandwich beyond sanitary boundaries.

Chicago News: Cuba has signed the treaty with the United States being a small nation, and only a year old, is has not yet learned how to break agreements after the manner of great powers.

Milwaukee Sentinel: Capt. Pershing has bagged another sultan, and the question now is, what are Erving Winslow and the Boston dattos go to do about it?

St. Louis Globe Democrat: Bryan says the nomination of Cleveland would disgrace the democracy. Bryan's candidate is Stone, and that settles the value of Bryan's opinion.

Pittsburg Gazette: Russian officials declare that their feelings have been very much hurt by American criticism of Russia's course in Manchuria. Why not try the Pennsylvania law in Pennsylvania, gentlemen? It is rather Russian in spirit, and intended for public grafters with hurt feelings.

Philadelphia Press: It's rather too much to expect Mr. Cleveland to decline a presidential nomination, while he is busy. It might scare the fish.

WISE SAWS.

The man who marries for money certainly earns it.

If you are the right kind of citizen you don't have to advertise the fact.

The woman in the case never observes how awkward a man is when in love.

The calamity howler is like a fish-worm; he always crawls out when it rains.

Some men are surprised when they discover that the truth answers better than a lie.

A soft answer will turn away wrath. A soft observation will usually keep it from coming at all.

Where glory is honor is too often lacking. Glory without honor is like a nut without a kernel.

It sometimes happens that marriage is a failure because the husband is unable to pay alimony.

"De man dat's always tellin' 'bout what he gwine do," said Uncle Shad, "nebber fin's time foh to do it!"

When a man discovers that he is his own worst enemy it is up to him to make friends with himself.

There is no fixed standard of beauty. This enables every man to have a better looking wife than his neighbor.

There should be no objection to the auburn tresses of a woman provided the color does not penetrate into her temperament.

When a man comes home at three o'clock in the morning and finds himself unable to think up a good excuse, it is time to swear off for a few days.

Some people are like a lead pencil; they spend all their life working for other people, and when the task is done there is nothing left of them, worth saving.

THE SPIRIT OF THE SOLDIER

REV. DENISON'S SUNDAY SERMON WAS VERY TIMELY.

WHAT A SOLDIER ENDURES

Must Suffer Hardship and Cold Without Complaint, as a True Christian.

At the Congregational church Sunday Reverend Denison took for his text the Spirit of the Soldier. From this taking his text from Second Timothy, 2nd chapter, 3rd verse: "Suffer hardships with me as a good soldier of Christ Jesus," he built a most interesting sermon. His sermon in part follows:

War is passing from the earth. There are still rumbles but they are like the retreating sounds of thunder which grow fainter as the storm recedes. Men used to fight just for the sake of fighting. Every man used to be a soldier. The farmer, the merchant were despised; only the soldier was honorable.

The cost of war is against it. The European statesmen rebel at the draining of the nations to pay for armies and navies. And the destructiveness of modern weapons makes war less likely in the future. The soldier was the man of the past; the diplomat the scholar, the merchant the men of the future.

But the spirit of the soldier is something the world must always have. American life today needs men of the same spirit as the men of '61.

Obedience is a soldierly virtue. It is necessary in the drill. It is necessary in the battle. The spirit of obedience distinguishes the army from the lawless and dangerous mob. It is the first duty of the home to teach the child obedience. The parent who does not train the boy to obey cripples him for life. Where did the notion come from that it is "big" to do as you please? We have to obey nature's laws. Every man in business has to obey the laws of system and honor.

The soldier's spirit is the spirit of quiet activity. His business is to act, not to talk. His eloquence is the eloquence of deeds. Talking of a good thing does not relieve us of the necessity of doing it. The best work we do in advancing Christianity is not our words in its defense but our deeds in its name.

Williness is the spirit of the soldier. He is that of willingness, even anxiety, to do something. He is generally not so much afraid that he may be sent into the battle as he is afraid he may not be sent. He wants to go. We need such a spirit in the world. There is something lagging in many of us. The world has too many tame men and fearful men, who are afraid that nothing can be done to uplift men and break the power of old evils.

The soldier is not afraid of hardship. He must bear cold and hunger without complaint. He must not search for the easy place. We need that spirit today. Too many of us flinch and shrink at the hard duties. If things do not go just right we whine over our lot.

Self-Giving is the spirit of the soldier. We associate the soldier with bloodshed. But there is another side to his life. The epitaph of the men who gave their lives for this country is "greater love hath no man than this that a man lay down his life for his friends." We generally think that it is the soldier's business to kill. It is, but it is also his business to die. He gives himself for the good of others. There are two kinds of giving. One is generosity without sacrifice. The other is the complete giving of self like the soldiers, who in the coin of his own sacrifice paid for the ransom of many.

Have Peace Let the war cease. May common sense and reason and love take the place of fighting, but in that warfare of the soul, that endless battle for right, God made us soldiers all.

HE WAS MUSICIAN IN WAR OF 1812

Israel Young, Resting in a Janesville Grave—Father of R. P. Young.

Among the war of 1812 veterans who lie in graves in this city and whose names have not been previously mentioned in the columns of the Gazette is Israel Young, father of R. P. Young of this city. The latter has in his possession a document signed by Millard Fillmore, president of the United States, which indicates that Israel Young was a musician in Capt. Gallion's company of New York volunteers. Mr. Young says that his wife's uncle, Gen. Eaton, won distinction in the war with the Barbary pirates, and that in the doorway of the arsenal at Washington are two bronze guns which he captured in Tripoli.

ZIMMERMAN IS NOW VERY LOW

The Man Who Was Assaulted a Week Ago, is in a Critical Condition.

Henry Zimmerman, the teamster who was assaulted and left with a fractured skull in the courthouse park on Saturday night a week ago, is in a very dangerous condition. Dr. Farnsworth, who is attending him, says that he has been unconscious since Saturday last and that the chances for his recovery are very poor.

Same Story

All during the week Zimmerman has told the same story he told the day after the accident. This in substance is that he was attacked by two men about half past ten Saturday night and was either shot or hit with a blunt weapon with such force he became unconscious and lay in the park until half past two. His skull was fractured over his left eye and he had bled considerable when he reached home.

Too Ill

Sheriff Appleby and District Attorney Jackson were to have held an inquiry as to his story this afternoon but owing to his being unconscious they were forced to postpone it until later.

Assaultants Unknown Zimmerman's assailants are unknown. There were two men in the park on the night in question who went about picking fights and one young student was badly handled and a well known bartender had his head cut open by them. It is possible that Zimmerman's story is as he told it and these men were his assailants.

Small List of Players The weather man was not wholly kind, but although the air was more chilly than comfort desired, the attraction of the clubhouse was too great to be ignored, and many were present. Only fifteen club members participated in the sweepstakes event. F. H. Jackman registering the winning card. In their order the next three were J. L. Wilcox, George Brownell, and R. K. Rockwell of Beloit.

SPECIAL MUSIC LAST EVENING

First Methodist Church Gave Music Lovers a Decided Treat on Sunday Evening.

The sacred concert given at the M. E. church Sunday evening was most enjoyable and profitable. The voluntary was followed by a hymn and this by a selection by the Epworth League orchestra. A mixed quartet consisting of Rev. and Mrs. H. S. Williams of Footville, Miss Hall and Mr. Cleveland was highly appreciated. After the anthem by the large chorus choir, the solo part carried very admirably by Mrs. Bagley, the audience heard Mrs. Williams in a solo, "The Lord is my Shepherd". Her beautiful voice filled the audience room and was finely sustained by the piano accompaniment played by her husband. In the place of a scripture reading favorite passages were given by members of the congregation. The offertory prayer by Miss Crawford was a saxophone solo and was finely rendered.

Rev. Williams then gave a short address—the theme followed was illustrated by songs—the speaker brought to mind the old songs of childhood youth and manhood and old age—the audience heartily singing stanzas of "Jesus Loves Me" "Am I A Soldier of the Cross" "My Heavenly Home, etc."

The duet by Mesdames Warner, and Williams was a very rare treat. It is seldom you hear two voices so beautifully blended as theirs were in this number—"My Faith Looks up to Thee."

The male quartet then gave "Lowly at Thy Feet" in a very sweet and impressive manner. The evening was surely a most enjoyable one; closing with hymn—"When The Roll is Called up Yonder."

The people very much appreciated the good will and earnestness of Rev. Williams and wife, who drove from Footville in the afternoon—returning in the evening, in order to assist the people of First M. E. church.

CITY DEATH ROLL

Mrs. Ann Tarney The funeral of Mrs. Ann Tarney was held Saturday morning from St. Mary's church, the Reverend W. A. Goshel officiating. Interment was in Mt. Olivet cemetery. The funeral will be held from the home Tuesday at 2 p. m. The Reverend J. H. Tippett will officiate. Interment will be in Oak Hill cemetery.

E. Waldo Childs E. Waldo Childs, an aged stone cutter who lived above Reilly's bakery on West Milwaukee street, was found dead in his room this morning. To what disease the death should be attributed is not known. Sheriff Appleby and Under Sheriff Cochrane were called and removed the body to Kimball's undertaking rooms.

TRINITY CHURCH SUNDAY SERVICE

REV. DR. REILLY, OF MADISON, CONDUCTED SERVICES.

DELIVERED AN ABLE SERMON

He Talked on Sleep and Death, and Their Great Similarity.

Reverend Dr. Reilly of Grace church, Madison, conducted the service at Trinity church Sunday morning. Dr. Reilly spoke on immortality and told of the similarity between ordinary sleep and death, of the great number of partings in every person's life; that in reality sleep was one of these but was not feared because known to be only temporary, while death causes sorrow and dread because it is not understood. Dr. Reilly did not take a text for his sermon, but summed it all up in the well known phrase, Vanity, vanity, all is vanity. He showed that death was not a cause for sorrow when rightly understood.

Dr. Reilly told in a beautiful way how grand and inspiring a thing the ascension must have been. He related how once he had seen, one day, an aeronaut make an ascension into the air, how he went higher and higher until he disappeared for a moment in the clouds and how, when the aerial navigator came into sight again above the cloud so high up that only a few could see him, how the sunlight played around him, and how beautiful a sight it was. Dr. Reilly said he could not but think how infinitely grand must have been the sight of the ascension of Christ.

In referring to immortality the preacher said, that while members of the church cannot say that others will not come to the kingdom of God in the life hereafter, but neither can they say they will, without having gone through the rites of baptism, confirmation and communion.

KANSAS CITY UNDER WATER

PROPERTY LOSS IS $6,000,000

Police Sergeant Sees Women and Children Drown, He Believes Unable to Render Any Assistance—Many Lives in Peril in Packing Houses.

Kansas City, Mo., June 1.—Twelve square miles of the two Kansas Citys are submerged. Armourdale is abandoned. Argentine and other suburban towns are under water, and millions of dollars' worth of property has been destroyed as a result of the flood.

The waterworks plant has shut down. All electric cars are idle. Railroad trains cannot enter the city. The Union depot in this city has been abandoned. The freight depots are under water.

The property loss in Kansas City and the cities across the river is estimated at $6,000,000.

Many persons are known to have been drowned. The death list is estimated from fifteen to fifty.

Twenty-seven Drown. It is reported that twenty-seven men were on the Union Pacific bridge at Kansas City, Kas., which spanned the Kansas river, when it went down, and that all of the men were drowned. It is said that many persons saw the helpless men swept away.

The flooded district of the two Kansas Citys covers an area three miles long by four miles wide. The flood forms a semicircle reaching south and west from the Union depot, which is located under high bluffs that mark the dividing line between Kansas City (Mo.) proper and what is known as the West Bottoms.

Waters Merge. The principal damage was at Armourdale and Argentine, Kas. In the packing house district on the Kansas river, on the extreme southwest border of the circle mentioned. The rise in the Kansas river met the waters of the Missouri on the northwest and merged south on the highest point, at the Union depot.

From the depot, south and west to both rivers, there is a gradual decline. A few blocks west of the depot the water, which came with a mighty force, spread out in all directions, and it was not long before the wholesale district of Kansas City, Mo., was under water, ranging from three feet at the Union depot to fifteen feet or more at the stockyards and packing house district along the Kansas river.

Buildings Are Submerged. The packing houses and the stockyards, which are in the lower district, are surrounded by water fifteen feet high, and at the live stock exchange the basement, containing two dozen railway offices, is completely submerged and the water reaches into the second story offices.

At the stockyards all the pens were submerged to the roof, the implement, grocery, and other houses were flooded to the first floors, and costly machinery and stocks were in many cases buried under water.

Property Is Destroyed. The mail station A, the biggest substation in the city, and two fire houses were abandoned, as was, in fact, the entire flooded district, which now is reachable by boats alone. The water soon became too deep for the passage of wagons, and property of all kinds was left at the mercy of the floods. Notwithstanding the reports of great loss of life few of the stories could be substantiated, and it will be several days at least before there is any accurate information in this regard.

William Heiser, 75 years of age, is known to have been drowned near his home in the east bottoms. In company with his wife, he started to leave his home and both of them were borne down.

Edward Blanchard, city plumbing inspector, is authority for the statement that three women are caught in the freight house of the Union Pacific railway. He declared that he saw them waving their hands and beckoning for help. It was impossible for anybody to reach them, however, and they are still imprisoned.

Hundreds Are Rescued.

It is estimated that 250 people were rescued from buildings in the west bottoms during the day. Four dray wagons were used by the firemen and police in removing people from buildings which were partially under water. This was continued until the water rose to such a height that the horses could scarcely struggle through it. Then a large number of boats were pressed into service and refugees were removed to the approaches of the "L" road station, from which point they could climb to places of safety.

The stream which surged through every street of the vast bottoms was so high that people were driven to the upper floors of buildings, and it was necessary to adopt other methods to rescue them. In many cases along West Ninth street people were pulled up to the structure of the elevated roads by ropes which had been thrown to them. Thirty people were taken out of the Baltimore hotel at Ninth and Mulberry streets, most of them being carried away in boats.

Many in Peril.

E. E. Mattheide, general manager of the Schwarzchild & Sulzberger packing plant, telephoned that 100 men were imprisoned by the water in the packing house and asked the police to try to rescue them.

Sergt. Conhulta, who is stationed on the Twelfth street viaduct, saw some distance away a woman and three children aloft on the roof of a small cottage. Suddenly the wreckage gave a lurch and he saw the occupants of the roof go more. A boat containing five men capsize later near the same place, but whether the occupants perished or not the sergeant could not discern.

Towns Are Deserted.

Armourdale, with a population of 16,000 people, is deserted and its site marked only by the tops of buildings and a number of trees. The refugees from Armourdale for the most part are huddled together in the immense auditorium of the convention hall, although several hundred found havens with friends in more fortunate parts of the city.

Two-thirds of Argentine is under water. Over 4,500 people in this suburb found safety in the higher part of the town.

All bridges over the Kaw river are down, and the only communication with Armourdale is by boat.

LOSS OF LIFE BY FIRE AND FLOOD SHELTER FOR THE HOMELESS

Women's Relief Corps in Charge of the Sufferers at the G. A. R. Hall—Temporary Hospitals Are Provided by the City and Aid Is Declined.

Topeka, Kan., June 1.—The estimates of the loss of life in the flood at North Topeka Saturday are conservatively placed at from 170 to 200. It will be several days before the real extent of the disaster to human life can be ascertained.

The names of 200 missing have been reported to police headquarters here.

The number of dead is merely a matter of estimate. Twenty members of rescuing parties tell of how they saw people drop from houses only to be swept away by the flood, and others tell of men who, terrified at the approach of the fire, dropped into the water, where they sank and did not reappear.

Estimate Is Conservative. This estimated number of dead does not include the large number classed as missing, who cannot otherwise be accounted for. Neither does it include the number who are supposed to have lost their lives in the fire. In the latter class there is absolutely no means of arriving at even an approximate number of victims. The water is so high and the current so strong that all that can be done now is to rescue those in the buildings surrounded by water.

So far only five bodies have been recovered and identified. They are those of Karl and Orville Rupp, two Rupp girls and E. H. Garnett.

Police Chief Is Missing. Chief of Police Goff and his family are among those not yet accounted for. They may be among those on the tops of the buildings, but this is hardly the case, as their house was in a direct path of the fire.

The work of rescuing the victims of the flood is being pushed forward with vigor. Two little steam launches travel up and down the river, picking up survivors. A larger steamboat is expected here by a special train on the Rock Island.

A wire cable has been stretched across the Kansas avenue bridge. To this has been attached a sand dip, and refugees will be brought across in this manner. If the flood does not rise further and those not yet reached can keep their places there need not necessarily be a much larger loss of life.

Refuge Outside Offers. Topeka's citizens decided to care for their own homeless and destitute. Hundreds of men have already subscribed $100,000. The Commercial club at a special meeting decided to refuse all outside offers of money. Galveston, St. Louis, St. Joseph and other cities have already telegraphed offers of financial assistance. To these offers the following reply was sent:

"Situation is grave, and it is impossible at this time to estimate the loss of life or property. We thank you sincerely for your offered assistance, but we are not willing to accept aid from the outside unless it seems an absolute necessity. The city and county and our own citizens will provide for the present needs."

"JOHN E. FROST, President Commercial Club."

Open Shelter Houses. Shelters for the homeless have been opened in the old Santa Fe shops, at G. A. R. hall, at Salvation Army barracks, and in the churches and school-houses.

The members of the Woman's Relief corps are thoroughly organized for this work and are not only feeding but providing all under their care with needed clothing. Members of the post and corps are providing for about forty others at their homes. The hall is open day and night.

A serious epidemic is feared. The sewerage system has been destroyed, cisterns are flooded, and well water contaminated. An epidemic of measles was raging before the floods came, and there were a number of cases of diphtheria.

Emergency Hospitals. Improvised hospitals have been opened, and Dr. Roby has called for volunteer nurses. Physicians held a meeting and advised the city authorities to establish a camp on high ground outside the city.

One of the most serious features of the situation, is the shortage in the food supply. Cattle, hogs and sheep in the Topeka territory have been drowned. The local packing houses are closed, and no supplies of meat can be secured in Kansas City.

The gardeners of Topeka were all located in the Kaw valley, and their farms are all under water from three to fifteen feet deep. This cuts off the vegetable supply.

Wichita and other cities on the South which can be reached will be called upon for provisions. Already there is a scarcity of meat and vegetables and staple groceries are getting low.

Indicted for Peonage. Montgomery, Ala., June 1.—The United States grand jury returned thirty-six indictments against white citizens of Coosa and Tallapoosa counties, charging peonage, or holding negroes in servitude.

Pressure on Naval Guns. A naval gun when fired sustains a pressure of fifteen to seventeen tons to the square inch. It has previously stood a charge giving a force of twenty tons to the square inch at the proving grounds.

...Forty Years Ago...

Janesville Daily Gazette, Monday, June 1, 1863.—The Wisconsin regiments in General Grant's army are noted for their gallantry. The 11th, 14th and 17th have been highly commended, and the list of wounded at Black River bridge and before Vicksburg confirms the statement.

Henry Ward Beecher, who has had a four months' leave of absence granted him, to go to Europe, his congregation paying all the expenses, preached for the last time before his departure, Sunday evening, to a crowded audience at the Plymouth church.

A private dispatch from Canton, says: All was well yesterday. Vicksburg holds out bravely.

From the Battery.—We have a letter from Lieut. Harlow, of the Twelfth battery, dated the tenth of May. He says, "Our battery, since the recent addition of valuable horses, is in excellent serviceable condition, and all the men with us are in excellent spirits and never enjoyed better health. We understand that a letter has been received from Lieut. Amsden, by his family, stating that the battery was in the battle at the bridge over the Big Black, and that none of them were injured.

Union Club.—The proposed meeting of last week for the election of officers for the present quarter, will be held this evening at the regular hour in the club room. A full and punctual attendance is requested, as besides the election there is other business to be attended to. S. A. Hudson, Pres.; D. S. Glascott, Sec.

A headquarters of the army of the Potomac dispatch of the 30th says that the rebels held a grand review near Hamilton's crossing on the 29th. Rumors are rife of a cavalry skirmish near Bealton station. There are indications of an attack by Lee but all is quiet.

Our loss in the fight at Norman's Ferry on the Cumberland river, on the 29th, was eight men and nine horses. Lieut. Col. Adams of the 1st Kentucky cavalry, crossed the Cumberland afterwards and captured one lieutenant, one sergeant, five men and eleven horses.

RAT SKINS FOR GLOVES.

A report comes from Copenhagen that a great rat hunt has been organized there and that the skins of many thousands of the victims are to be used in making gloves. If the rat hunters in the Danish capital cherish any such hopes they are doomed to disappointment. Rat skins cannot be made into gloves fit for commerce. The belief that a valuable raw material is being neglected survives only in the minds of the inexperienced. The glovemaking knows much better.

A Norwegian merchant once went to England and informed a well known glovemaking that he had collected over 100,000 rat skins, and was prepared to receive offers for them. He was fully convinced that the skins were suitable for glove making. But the manufacturer found that the largest skin was only some six inches long, and he held up a kid which was eight inches long, and asked how he was to cut such a glove out of a rat skin. The Norwegian laughed at the idea and went away disappointed. The best offer he got for those skins, which he had collected with so much care, was 5 shillings a hundredweight from a man was willing to boil them down for glue.

A famous glove making firm in England has a collection of curiosities relating to the trade, and one of them is the largest pair of gloves ever made out of a rat skin. The belief that such skins could be made into gloves was laid before the managers so confidently that they resolved to put it to the trial, and they ordered a number of skins of the largest rats which could be found in Grimsby. But the rat is a fighting animal, and bears the marks of many battles on his body, and it was found that the skins were so scarred and torn that it was with the utmost difficulty that perfect pieces large enough for the purpose could be obtained. In the end, after ten skins had been used, a pair of gloves was cut and made, and they are retained in the collection to this day. But they are so small they would only fit the smallest of small boys. Thus it was shown, that however cheaply rat skins might be obtained, they would offer no advantages to the glovemaking.

NEVER WANDERS FROM DOOR YARD

Mrs. Van Dyke, of Delavan, Has Not Left Her Home for Many Years.

Living within the door yard of her own home for more than twenty years is the unusual experience of Mrs. Abner Van Dyke of Delavan, Wis. Although she lives within the city limits of the town, and a few minutes' walk would take her to the business section, she said not to have set foot "downtown" for a period of more than a fifth of a century. Stores have been built, houses erected, and improvements made that she has never seen, and she would probably fail to recognize landmarks with which she was once quite familiar.

Mrs. Van Dyke has followed this life since the death of her husband, more than a score of years ago. It is explained by her friends simply that she has never cared to leave her home since that sad day. She spends her time not idly, but is always doing something about the house or reading. Many hours are spent in the care of broods of chicks that are raised in the backyard. In this occupation she has a strange delight. She reads a great deal, is a French scholar, turning thousands of pages printed in this language. No one attempts to engage her in conversation touching her great sorrow, but she does not seem to show her feelings to those who are near to her.

A feature of this strange life is that Mrs. Van Dyke lives in one of the most beautiful towns in southern Wisconsin. The walks lie under double rows of some of the finest trees in the state, and the pretty homes are well back in well kept lawns. The surroundings are cheerful to an unusual degree, nature having richly endowed the entire community. This was so before the sorrow of Mrs. Van Dyke's life overtook her, and she is well aware of the beautiful character of the town in which she lives, but none of its attractions have been sufficient to change her course from the life of a recluse.

Mrs. Van Dyke comes from an intellectual family that hails from Lac du Bonnet, province of Montague, Canada. She makes her home with Mrs. Eleanor McCoy, who for over twenty years was a mute teacher in the Wisconsin School for the Deaf, and in this respect her services to the state of Wisconsin and in the interest of the unfortunate were incalculable. She was highly educated in the New York institution of kindred character and began her work in Wisconsin in 1874 and continued until 1895.

EXTENT OF PEANUT INDUSTRY.

Annual Product Declared to Be Worth $10,000,000.

Georgians are called "goober grabbers" throughout the South. Many a farmer has grown rich on the humble peanut, the annual product being worth $10,000,000. Some persons try to belittle the goober. A lawyer, examining a witness in an important case, one whose testimony was conclusive, undertook to ridicule him. "You are a business man, I believe?" "Yes." "What is your business?" "I deal in peanuts." The lawyer smiled knowingly at the jury. "A peanut vender, eh? How many plums did you sell last month?" "I hardly know. A million, possibly." "What? A million?" "I handle about half a million bushels a year. I am a wholesale dealer." The lawyer sat down with the laugh turned on him.

Stroke Shattered My Nerves.

Gave Up Preaching For Two Years.

Dr. Miles' Nerve Put Me On Active List.

Are you well? Do you sleep well? Do you get up rested, fresh and vigorous? Is your mind clear and active? If not read the following. See what another has suffered and how he recovered.

"Some years ago I was afflicted with sun stroke which left me with a shattered nervous system and exceedingly poor health. I suffered terribly with pain in my head, the top of my head would feel hot. I could not study, and after striving for two years to wear the trouble off, I was compelled to give up my pastoral labor and retire to my farm where I spent nearly two years trying to recuperate. It was all of no avail. Physicians' treatment and patent medicines failed to relieve me. I was exceedingly nervous and irritable and sometimes would shake terribly. I could not bear any noise. At the least excitement the blood would rush to my face and head. Two years ago I was induced to try Dr. Miles' Restorative Nerve. After using one bottle I could see improvement in my condition so I continued taking it for nearly a year. I am happy to say I no longer have those pains in my head or nervous spells. My appetite is good and I am able to preach three times on Sunday without fatigue. I consider Dr. Miles' Nerve the most wonderful medicine ever discovered. I am, J. H. Holman, Pastor U. B. THE CAUSE AND CURE OF DISEASE EXPLAINED

THE ONE CAUSE

Nature originates and destroys. The destructive process begins with the fermentation and decay of blood corpuscles.

The cause of this fermentation is from Bacteria or microbes in the system.

The fermentation does not take place without air, heat and moisture—for the germs or microbes are living organisms, that multiply in myriads with great rapidity.

These microbes when fully developed, colonize in great numbers and attack the various vital organs of the body by feeding on the tissues thus producing inflammation which is sickness.

If there were no microbes there would be no fermentation, hence there would be no sickness; life would continue indefinitely, suffering brought about by ill-health would cease and the processes of nature would stagnate. To this law man is no exception, and in it is the secret cause of all disease.

No sickness can come on without microbes in the blood.

THE UNIVERSAL CAUSE OF DISEASE IS MICROBES WHICH PILLAGE AND DESTROY.

THE ONE CURE

As the cause of all diseases is conclusively proven by every authority to be fermentation in the blood, produced by germs and microbes, common sense dictates that if the microbes were destroyed the cause would be removed.

The only known principle powerful enough to destroy the microbe in the blood, yet harmless as water to the tissues, was discovered by the learned scientist and microscopist, Prof. Wm. Radam. Its peculiar character is that of a true antiseptic and germicide, and its fame is world-wide under the name of "Radam's Microbe Killer."

It has withstood the most critical scientific examinations and is endorsed by every eminent medical authority.

As all disease originates from the same source, microbes Radam's Microbe Killer prevents and cures EVERY DISEASE by destroying Bacteria the organic life that causes fermentation and decay of blood corpuscles. Kills the germs, and nature, through rich, red blood, kills the disease.

THE UNIVERSAL CURE FOR DISEASE IS TO KILL THE MICROBES WHICH PRODUCE IT.

Human Blood in Health Enlarged 1,000 Times.

Human Blood Full of Germs Enlarged 1,000 Times.

Enlightened Science Admits that all Sickness is Caused by

GERMS OR BACTERIA

Poisoning and Wasting the Blood, the Tissues and Vital Organs.

FIRE SWEEPS OVER RACINE

STANDARD OIL SUFFERS LOSS

Thousands of Gallons of Inflammable Stuff Explodes, Driving the Flames 300 Feet in the Air and Forcing Firemen Away.

Racine, Wis., June 1.—For more than three hours Sunday afternoon the entire section of the city southwest from a point east of Mead street bridge was in danger of being wiped out by a fire which started in the plant of the Racine Boat Manufacturing company, and 15,000 people were panic stricken. Help was asked from the Milwaukee and Kenosha fire departments, and engines were being loaded on the cars at those cities when Fire Marshal James Cape countermanded the order, having placed the fire under control.

The losses are as follows: Racine Boat company, $125,000; J. I. Case Threshing Machine company, $150,000; Standard Oil company, $25,000; John Roberts company, $1,000; J. I. Case Plow company, $5,000; total loss, $305,000.

The fire started in the Racine Boat Manufacturing company's plant. A thirty mile gale was blowing at the time. The fire jumped to the large three-story machine shop and house for building the large steel yachts. Then the wind carried the flames to five large wooden sheds of the J. I. Case company, filled with traction engines and threshing machines; thence to the lumber yards and sheds of the boat company.

Oil Explodes.

About this time the Standard Oil company plant and the roofs of the J. I. Case Plow company caught fire. The warning went out against explosions of oil, and thousands of people rushed back pell mell. In one of the oil tanks was 10,000 gallons of gasoline; in another 13,000 gallons of kerosene; in a third, 5,000 gallons of naphtha and 2,000 gallons of lubricating oil.

Half an hour after the fire caught the explosions came. Flames shot 300 feet in the air and the heat was terrific, driving the firemen and crowds back.

DR. LINDLEY SAYS

"Few physicians and fewer people realize the extent of this terrible disease or its dangerous or treacherous nature."

It steals into the system like a thief and secretly fastens itself upon the constitution before the victim is aware of its presence.

Sometimes kidney disease may be likened to the approach of a panther on its prey, stealthily creeping along, until at last the fatal spring is made.

The secret of freedom from this dreadful disease is the liberal use of Dr. Lindley's Golden Kidney Cure. It must be taken the moment any change from the standard of health is noticed, no matter where the affection seems to be located, and continued until every particle of impurity is removed and the kidneys are in a healthy condition. Dr. Lindley's Golden Kidney Cure is sold by most drug stores for 25 cents a bottle.

COLLECTED THE BILL.

ONE DUN WHO HAD RATHER A PLEASANT TIME.

But He Had an Interest in the Affair and Needed the Money—Case Where Persistence Won a Complete Triumph.

The following story is told of a certain young man in Mount Vernon who had been living rather close to the ground, as the saying goes, according to the New York Times, and who was badly in need of funds.

The young man went to a friend and told him of his predicament, requesting a loan at the same time. His friend was not "touchable," however, but he told the young man that if he would collect a bill he had against a certain man whose home was in a swell district of the city he might have half of the proceeds.

The fellow accepted and made his way to the home of the debtor. A young lady answered his ring and he inquired for Mr. B., the man of the house.

"Mr. B. is not at home," replied the young lady.

"Oh, he isn't?" said the collector. "Well, I'll just step in and wait for him."

Without waiting for an answer he slipped inside the door, took off his coat and hat, and sat down in an easy chair in the parlor. He picked up a paper and made himself as much at home as if the house was his own. He had read about fifteen minutes when Mr. B. came into the room and inquired as to the young man's business.

"Well," said that individual, "I have a little bill here that I wish to collect. It is from E. & Co."

"I am very sorry," said Mr. B., "but I am afraid that I cannot meet it just at present."

"Oh, there's no hurry," said the collector. "I can wait awhile," and he settled back in the chair and resumed reading the paper.

Mr. B. looked at him in surprise, and after a minute's thought said: "Really, it is dinner time and I am quite hungry. You must excuse me."

"Why, certainly," was the reply. "I am a little hungry myself. I don't mind eating dinner with you at all," and before the astonished man could reply he was through the door and inquiring where his seat would be. Mr. B. did not know what to do, but he was polite and made a place for him. They ate dinner and had a cold bottle after it and by that time it was growing late. They talked of the weather and one thing and another and in time the clock struck 10 and Mr. B. began to be worried. As a last resource he remarked:

"It is time that I should retire. While your company has been an-icipated it has been enjoyable. I hope that you will call again."

But the young man was not fazed. He calmly replied: "I have been pleasantly entertained, Mr. B. Now, if you will show me my room, I shall retire also."

Mr. B. glared at the intruder. That person simply sat and smoked his after-dinner cigar and looked at peace with the world. This state of affairs continued until early in the morning, when Mr. B. lost all control of himself, pulled out his checkbook, wrote a check for the amount of the bill and threw it to the young man.

"Now, you blank-blinded lobster," he said, "get out of this house as quick as you can. If you don't there'll be trouble."

The collector got his hat and coat and went out into the street with a smile on his face. It was a hard struggle, but persistence had won.

SOLDIERS WHO COMMIT SUICIDE

Interesting Statistics of the Various Armies.

A French student has been investigating the subject of suicides in the armies of Europe, and has reached some curious results. Everywhere, except in Russia, the number of military suicides is decreasing; in that country, however, the average for some years past has been 133 in every 100,000. In France the proportion now is 18 in 100,000; in Italy, 24; in Germany, 36, and in Austria 105 in every 100,000. In civil life in this country the Germans provide the largest proportion of suicides; it is curious to find them surpassed in Europe by the Austrian and Russian soldiers.

The different arms of the services commit suicide in differing proportions. In the French army self-murder is commonest among the men of the Foreign Legion, of whom 99 in 100,000 commit it yearly, and least common among those of the Garde Republicaine, only 14 of whom kill themselves to each 100,000. The French cavalry provides more suicides than does the infantry, the latter more than the artillery, and the engineers the smallest number.

In the British army the suicide rate is about 23 to the 100,000 at home and 30 per 100,000 in India. In 1898-99 the rate in our regular army was about 47 per 100,000; it is lower now, the strain of war conditions having lessened.
